MAY CURTAIL SALE OF CONVICT GOODS

Bill in Congress Likely to Interfere With Virginia Prison System.

ALLOWS STATES TO SETTLE

Committee's Favorable Report Is Accompanied by Startling

States.

The existing contract between Virginia and the Davis Company expires in 1913. It is the subject of a continuous discussion on one or another of its features. One of the principal objections arises from the low rate paid by the manufacture to the State for the labor employed. It is expected that the next Legislature will take some action relative to the renewal or abandonment of the arrangement.

Convicts Hig Work.

Some interesting and even startling statistics as to the extent and charanter of the manufacture and sale of prison-made goods are given in the report on the pending bill made by the House Committee on Labor. A hitherto unpublished table of the sale and consumption of convict-made goods in the various States for the years 1903-1904 its given.

This table was compiled by the Bureau of Labor from reports of its agents. It shows that in the State of Pennsylvania convict-made goods of Pennsylvania convict-made goods of Pennsylvania origin were sold outside the State to the value of $36,833; in the public institutions of the state there were consumed convict-made goods to the value of $158,172. Total market value of goods sold and used, $551,594.

In New Jersey the value of the coods sold in the State was $35,283.

$551,594.

In New Jersey the value of the goods sold in the State was $75,263, sold outside the State, $280,000; used in public institutions, $137,467; total sold and used, $42,730, in Maryland, the value of goods sold within the State was $138,671; sold outside the State was $138,671; sold outside the State, $1,121,586; used in public institutions, $43,882; total sold and used, $1,304,139. Congress should at least make the attempt to remove the barrier to suc-cessful action by the States; at least to have the question settled by the national tribunals. As the matter now the southeast stands, efforts at reform in industrial methods in penal institutions result in penalizing the States making the effort by making them better markets for the products of like institutions in "The bill does not seek to impose any policy upon the States. If Kentucky wants the binder twine of the Minnesota and Kansas prisons she wouwld still take it, and if Minnesota and Kansas want the brooms, hollowware, horse collars, chairs and shoes of the Kentucky prisons they will have them under this bill. But if they do not want each other's prison manufactures, or if either does not want those of the other, it seeks to let either control the matter according to its purpose." any policy upon the States. The effect of the passage of the bill might be to seriously disorganize the present prison-labor systems of the various States, especially those of Virginia, New Jersey and Maryland, whose prison-made goods are largely sold in other States.

States Want Control.

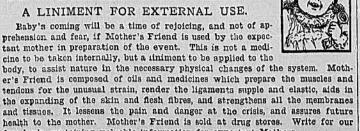

The committee's report says:
"The bill makes a simple proposition to permit the States to settle the vexed question of convict-labor competition among themselves. The desire of a number of States to solve it is manifest in the existence of more than 500 separate acts of legislation on the subject. As matters now stand, there is no power to effectively treat the subject because of the conflict between State and Federal laws, and the invoking of the commerce clause of the Constitution when a State attempts to interfere with the ingress within its borders of convict-made goods from other States.

Special Inquiries Made in Regard to Condition of Indian Population.

Washington, June 28.—The enumeration of the Indian population will be a feature of the thirteenth decennial census of the United States. It is calculated by officials of the Census Bureal that ten years hence all the Red Men will have become citizens, and consequently this is the last time the census will be taken showing their tribal relations. For this reason it has peculiar interest, and extreme precautions, it is said, were taken to obtain an accurate count, and all the information possible in regard to their condition.

When the census office placed its officent in the field among the Indians, it also sent about twenty special agents, who were versed in the affairs of the Red Men, to oversee the work of the enumerators. The returns are being closely scrutinized, to see that perfect records are obtained. The census office formulated special inquiries to be directed to the Indiansy with a view to securing all the information possible be relative to their condition. The responses to the kind of questions will show each Indian's tribal relations, proportion of Indian and other blood, number of times married, whether now whether iving in polygamy, whether wives are sisters; education, whether viving in zivilized or aboriginal dwelling.

SHAKING IN THEIR BOOTS

Naval Officers Fear Outcome of Selections of "Plucking Board."

Washington, June 25.-Certain naval officers are, figuratively speaking, shaking in their boots as next Thursday approaches, for on that day will become effective (providing the President approves) the recommendations of the "plucking board," looking to the enforced retirement from active service of a number of officers. The exact number cannot be known at this moment, because, while the law required about nineteen or them to be retired, there may be a few applications for voluntary retirement, or there may be some casualities which will reduce the number who will be forced from the active list.

Officers so displaced do not leave under a stigma; if they had done anything wrong they would have been court-martialed and dismissed from the service long ago. If they were broken down in health and physically deficient they would have been retired by medical boards. It means only that in order to provide for a proper flow of promotions from the lower to the higher grade of the navy, it is regarded as necessary that at least nineteen vacancies should be created each year, and it is the unpleasant duty of the "plucking board" to pick out the "men who are not non-efficient, and regarded as the least efficient, professionally or physically.

So to-day, aside from the officers of command rank, who are exempt from as the least supply and the officers of command rank, who are exempt from the operations of the law, the only average naval officer who feels thoroughly secure in his position is a member of the "plucking board" itself.

2.000th anniversary of the founding of the Society of the Four Brothers, and in its honor the members were to give a banquet in Pell Street at 5 o'clock. The guests began to arrive early from all parts of the city, and even from nearby towns. It was in the midst of this restless, shuffling throng, sown thick with policemen, that the shooting began at just 4 o'clock. There is no certainty of the precise provocation, but it is generally understood in Chinatown that the Ong Leong Tong did not relish the fact that Chue Hen, Ong Leong Tong man, was to be the guest of honor.

Somebody began to shoot. The rain of bullets came too fast for eye to catch the first fash. Sen Chin, the linevitable innocent bysunder, was the first to fall, shot through the abdomen. He will die.

Chu Foo was shot behind the ear and in the back. He expired in the hose pital. Chu Pan was shot through the left thigh. His injuries are not serious. Thus far it has been impossible to learn to which Tong the individual wounded belonged. All were taken to a hospital.

Seven Chinose were caught, some of whom the police say they saw shooting, and on others of whom jevolvers were found.

The reserves were called out, a cordon was drawn tight about the entire quarter, all visitors were barred, and no curiosity wagons were allowed to night. Then the interrupted banquet of the Four Brothers went on. The lights were bright in the banquet hall and the talk was still running spiritedly.

BASEBALL UMPIRE A BRIDE.

Doys of School in Orange Sorry to Lese Popular Tencher.

Orange, N. J., June 26.—Miss M. Louise Davis, the teacher of the Cleveland Street school, of this city, who became famous for her ability to umpire a game of baseball, disappointed the boys who have idolized her by announcing that she had long ago been married, and could not either stay through the summer and umpire their games, as they had asked her to do, nor return in the fall to conto do, nor return in the fall to con-to do, nor return in the fall to continue as teacher.

She said she had become Mrs. George Gilbert Wild last February, and was going to meet her husband at Albany this afternoon. After making the announcement Miss Davis—or, rather, Mrs. Wild—left Orange Bay for the train, and is now in Albany.

As a consolation for the disappointment she was forced to inflict on her boys, Mrs. Wild extended an invitation to them to go with her and Mr. Wild some day next week to see a game of baseball in New York City.
